

THE EFFECT OF ENGINEERED SUBSTRATE SELECTION ON FILTER PERFORMANCE IN STATIC AND DYNAMIC TEST CONDITIONS

Jay Forcucci¹

¹Cerex Advanced Fabrics

Hydraulic filters have been traditionally tested in a static flow condition. Recent efforts are being made to develop a dynamic flow standard as well. This presentation will discuss the difference between static and dynamic test standards and the effect of filtration media substrate selection has on the eventual filter performance capability in both test standards.