

Mr. Peter Cartwright

Peter Cartwright has been in the water and wastewater treatment industry for 43 years, and has had his own consulting engineering company since 1980. He has delivered over 300 lectures and written the same number of articles on water/wastewater treatment technologies. He was the 2016 Distinguished McElhiney Lecturer for the National Groundwater Association and is an active member of most of the water related organizations.